for Oil and Salt Wells,
American Charcoal
Iron Boiler Tubes,
Lap Welded Tubing for Steam and Water.

SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF
W. C. ALLISON'S
PATENT JOINT
Oil Well Tubing.

This Superior Tubing is furnished with heavy sockets, and is cut with a vanishing screw thread, corresponding exactly with the thread in the socket, so that when screwed up it has a bearing the whole length of the joint: and the absence of a deep thread on the tube at the end of the socket obviates the liability to break at that point from the vibration caused by the action of the pump.

Each length and socket is stamped with our trade mark, and is carefully tested before shipment with a hydraulic pressure of 1,300 pounds to the square inch.

LAP-WELDED OIL WELL
Tubing & Casing.

We would call the particular attention of dealers and producers to this make of Tubing and Casing. One of the important features in the manufacture of our Tubing is, that the are made perfectly straight, smooth and uniform, thereby giving equal and great strength to the tubing throughout.

Each joint carefully inspected, reamed at end, and proved with the sockets on at a hydraulic pressure of 1,300 pounds to the square inch before shipment.

Life in Rio Janeiro.

THE EXPERIENCE OF A JOLLY AMERICAN.

An American wanderer, described by the Louisville Courier-Journal as being "loose in the largest city of South America," writes to that paper from Rio Janeiro:

Talk about Yankee shrewdness. The Yankee is nowhere beside a Brazilian. Here is a fair sample of their cunning: milk here is not carried around in carts, as in the states, but they drive the cow, with the calf tied to her tail and muzzled, right to your door. There she is milked, and one would naturally suppose they might, from such a process, get good, pure milk. But it is a fact, in spite of it all, they manage to put water into it, right under your nose. If that isn't sharpness for you I don't know where it's to be found. I went into a cigar store the other day to get a good Havana cigar. I commenced, "O senhor falla Anglais?" "Nao, senhor." "Parlez vous Francais?" "Nao, senhor." (I don't know what good it would have done if he could, for I couldn't) "Do you talk Spanish?" "Nao Senor." He didn't talk anything but Portugese, and I didn't talk anything but English. I told him I wanted some cigars. He got me some. I selected two or three that he said were Havana; then I wanted to pay for them. We couldn't understand each other. He fired away in Portugese, and I in English, Spanish, French, Hebrew, Hottentot, Choctaw, Comanche, and a little Piute. At last I got them paid for, and had the satisfaction of finding, when I got out in the street, that he had cheated me most egregiously. The Brazilians are the most polite persons I ever met. They always raise their hat when they pass an acquaintance. When you meet, you always shake hands. If you part with a friend for one moment, to go into a house or store, when you come out you shake hands. If you meet a man twenty times a day, you shake hands when you meet and when you part.

I stopped at the Hotel du Saxe; there I got a room and two meals a day, a bottle of wine for dinner, and coffee on arising, for four millreis a day—two dollars. I went into a restaurant with a friend to get dinner; calling for the bill I was somewhat startled to find it 3,800 reis. I did not, like Mark Twain's friend, get quite horror-stricken, for I was somewhat prepared for it. According to Mark Twain it took 1,000 reis to make one dollar; according to that the bill would have been $3 80, but here it takes 2,000 reis to make one dollar, and the bill was but $1 90 Everybody takes coffee on rising. Two meals a day is the order; breakfast at 8, dinner at half-past 4. A good dinner can be had for a millreis. The currency here is paper, and has been since the war with Paraguay. Before, it was coin, and so plentiful it was a trouble. The smallest piece of paper is a millreis, fifty cents; twenty and forty reis pieces of copper, one and ten cents, are the only coins now in use. All other change is made with ferry and horse-car tickets of 200 reis, ten cents.

As I said, everyone takes coffee on getting out of bed, as soon as they are dressed. Coffee is sold on the corners for a dump (forty reis) or two cents a cup; in the confectionaries it is sold for two dumps a cup. One morning I concluded I would take a cup away from the hotel. I went to the cafe, where the gentlemen were congregated, took a seat at a table, and was immediately served with a cup of delicious coffee. Having finished, I walked up to the desk to pay for it, threw down a ten cent ticket, with the remark, "um cafe," and waited for my change. The clerk said something to me in Portugese. Thinking he did not understand, I repeated "um cafe." Still he gave me no change, but went on talking to me in Portugese. I couldn't tell what he was saying, so I said, "cafe pura um" (coffee for one). Just then the boy who waited on me came up and said something to the clerk, who paid me my change, and said in good English, "Why don't you speak English?" Again I flushed up. I had been trying with my few broken sentences to make him understand what I wanted to pay him for, under the impression that he did not speak English, and he had been trying to get Portugese enough out of me to explain myself. He was an Englishman who spoke Portugese, and I was an American who didn't. Very often when the Brazilians are asked if they speak English, they answer "yes," they "speak English and American, too."

The Swedes in Maine.

THEIR HABITS AND STYLES OF DRESS.

A correspondent of the Boston Post has been writing some letters about the new Swedish colony in the northern part of Maine. The account of their personal habits and dress is interesting, as follows:

"Do tell us all about them, how they look and what they wear." "Nearly all that have been described possessed dark hair and eyes. I thought the Swedes were always light," suggested somebody. And generally they are. These few were exceptions, and came from the south of Sweden. The most of them are short and thick of stature, with round florid faces, light, flaxen hair, and small, round, exceedingly light blue eyes, which, though pleasant and intelligent, seem dull compared with sharp, restless Yankee orbs. They have low foreheads and plump, protruding cheeks, giving a rotund appearance to the face, rather the reverse of handsome, and to which the men add by shaving their beards low, round and close. Yet a look of honest cheerfulness radiates from all their countenances, and one feels that they are faces to be trusted. They move and speak with a deliberate air, as if each word and deed were of the utmost importance and to be duly considered, and give the impression of a most honest, industrious, sober and law-abiding people. All the inhabitants round about speak in terms of highest praise of their sobriety, peacefulness and thrift. To own a piece of land and acquire some property that they can call their own seems to be a pervading ambition, and not for mere temporary existence, but a looking ahead into the future. Such a people can scarcely fail to make the best of citizens, and there is now no reason to doubt that such will be the satisfactory result. In manners they are modest and retiring, but noticeably kind, obliging and courteous. To strangers they show the politest attentions, and tender them the warmest hospitalities. They are also kindly considerate of each other's happiness and welfare, and train their children into strictest habits and morality, obedience and politeness. Their dress is at present a strange mixture of American and Swedish costumes. Those who retain the national dress wear wooden shoes, made long and low, painted black, and with high heels and pointed or turned up toes. The dress of the men does not otherwise differ from the various costumes seen in our own country, save that they are of somewhat antiquated patterns. The costumes of the women and children are quaint and queer enough. The women and girls all wear handkerchiefs made of the nicest silk, folded with great care over their heads, and tied firmly but softly under their chins, looking very odd, to be sure, but at the same time both sensible, pretty and comfortable. A long, narrow apron is also an indispensable appendage to a complete toilet. The dress itself has generally a straight full skirt, with one or two tucks, a plain, short, round waist, and short straight sleeves. The little children looked funny enough clad precisely like father and mother. The panted, vested and coated little boys, and the nice little maidens in long dresses, narrow aprons and kerchiefs, demurely and soberly tied under the chin, present the appearance of dwarfed editions of manhood and womanhood. Some of the ladies have dispensed with the kerchief, and supplanting their places are successfully-attempted chignons, surmounted by flat straw hats. Quite a number of silk dresses, a few gold chains, and some nice jewelry, were also conspicuous. It is to be remembered that these colonists are by no means poor, but brought with them a deal of baggage and money, amounting to some $17,000. W. W. Thomas, of Portland, acting as free banker for the Swedes, has forwarded to them by bills of exchange from Sweden some $22,000 additional."

Traveling in the West.

I recall an adventure with a night clerk once in a western town. I retired, leaving directions to be called for the express, which came along at three o'clock in the morning. It was important that I shouldn't miss the train, and with the idea weighing upon my mind I couldn't sleep much. Waking suddenly from a doze, I consulted my watch and found it was nearly three o'clock. I dressed hurriedly, and going below found the night clerk asleep, with his feet upon the stove and a half consumed cigar in his mouth. I shook him and the following dialogue ensued:

Traveler—"Won't the omnibus be here soon?"

Clerk (gasping fearfully)—"Wha' om' bus?"

Traveler—"Why, the omnibus for the Eastern express."

Clerk—"No om'bus (gap) run that train."

Traveler (growing excited at the prospect of being left)—"How far is it to the depot?"

Clerk (lazily striking a match to relight his cigar)—"'bout a mile."

Traveler—"Well, call up the porter, and send him down with my baggage, and I'll walk. Come, no time to lose."

Clerk—"Por'er won't get up. He goes to bed for keeps."

Traveler (dancing around with nervous excitement)—"How am I to get that train, then?"

Clerk (a long gap)—"'amfino."

Traveler (diplomacy necessary)—"Would half a dollar induce you to go down to the depot with me and carry my baggage?"

Clerk (springing to his feet with great elacrity)—"Certainly, sir, I will light a lantern and jog right along."

The depot was a mile from town, a lonely place, with no other building near. No friendly light glimmered from the windows, the agent probably enjoying his necessary five hours sleep.

"Good bye," said the night clerk, as he received his half dollar and was about to return, leaving me to watch out in the cold for the train.

"See here," said I, "is this train usually on time?"

"Hardly ever known to be on time," replied the night clerk. "Three or four hours behind some times."

Here was a pleasant prospect for me alone at that desolate depot of a dark, wintry night. I was fearful of robbers, too. I hadn't much money; but how could the robbers be expected to know that?

"Can't you stay with me until the train comes?" I pleaded.

"I can't do it, boss (gaping again). Must get back to the hotel (gap). Good night (another gap); take good care of yourself, old man."

"What can I do if the train don't stop?" (Gaping fiercer than ever) "Damfino!"

Visions of robbers filled my mind as the lantern receded, and I yelled, "Would half a dollar induce you to stop until the train comes?"

"Certainly," said the night clerk, cheerily, stopping his gaps as he came back on the run. For once the train was on time, so he was not long delayed. It halted but a second; I jumped on the platform with my baggage, the train started, and the night clerk yelled, "Here you! Where's my half dollar?"

And the voice of the traveler came wafted back as he gaped, "Damfino!"

The Uses of Carbolic Acid.

Possibly no article of late discovery is of equal value to the farmer with this. Being destructive to all forms of insects, it furnishes a barrier to their increase which will tend much to deliver us from their ravages. It also destroys the minute fungus which produces mold, and those mysterious germs by which it is claimed diseases are spread from one individual to another. Used in a proper form, it will serve as a wash for trees and plants, destroying the insects which infest them and their eggs. It will rid animals of all parasites; lice, ticks and scabs are all destroyed by it. It is an excellent application to all the festering sores or wounds. In cases of the rinderpest it was the only substance used that was of positive use in preventing infection. Such being the valuable properties of this article, it should be in the hands of every farmer. For his convenience it is put up in preparations that may be conveniently used. In the shape of carbolic soap, it is easily applied as a wash; in the "disinfecting powder," it may be used in all cases where a dry application is needed; and in the sheep-dip and vermin destroyer it can be used in cases where strong liquid applications are necessary.

Best Time for Painting Houses.

The best time for painting the exterior of buildings is late in autumn, or during the winter. Paint then applied will endure twice as long as when applied in early summer or hot weather. In the former it dries slowly and becomes very hard, like a glazed surface, not easily affected afterward by the weather, or worn off by the beating of storms. But in very hot weather the oil in the paints soak into the wood at once, as into a sponge, leaving the lead nearly dry and ready to crumble off. This last difficulty, however, might in a measure be guarded against, though at an increased expense, by first going over the surface with raw oil. By painting in cold weather, one annoyance might certainly be escaped, namely, the collection of small flies on fresh paint.—Technologist.

The State Elections To-Day.

The importance of to-day's elections demands a more elaborate notice than has yet been accorded them in these columns. All will be held to-day, the 7th of November. Below we print the tickets and a few general remarks as to the result, from the Philadelphia Press. The victories achieved in the great State of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Iowa on the 10th ult., are having an inspiriting effect on all the States above named, and there is a prospect that their Republican majorities will be considerably increased, and the Democratic party still more hopelessly demoralized than at present.

A Glance at the Field.

NEW YORK:

The New York election will be of national importance. The people of the whole country will justly regard it as deciding the question whether the people of this state are not opposed to a government of fraud and dishonor. For several years the Tammany Ring has been supreme both in New York City and at Albany. It has controlled the state government almost as fully as the city government, and by the same means—by fraud at the polls and by bribery in the Legislature. Its crimes are now exposed, and the question before the people is whether or not it shall be deposed from power and its members punished.

The result of the election it is difficult to predict. The Republicans have recently healed their differences, and are making a fine canvass. There are yet a number of encouraging signs which warrant the hope that the Republicans will carry the Legislature, and that the Empire State will continue to be represented in Congress by an undivided Senatorial delegation.

MASSACHUSETTS,

as usual, presents a quadrilateral fight. The campaign has been one of the most curious on record, so far at least as the Republicans are concerned. Their whole excitement came before the nominating convention. Then every man's interest was aroused, lively discussions were going on in the press, and the primary meetings were the scenes of the most obstinate struggles. Notwithstanding the dullness of the campaign, we have hopes that the preparatory duties of its close, such as the election of candidates for the various offices and the arrangements for getting out a fair Republican vote, will be as well attended to as usual. Washburn's election is pretty well assured.

NEW JERSEY.

The election to take place in this state is for Governor and members of the Legislature. The Legislature last chosen was divided as follows:

	Senate.	House.	Joint Ballot.
Republicans -	12	34	46
Democrats -	9	26	35
Republican maj.	3	8	11

The vote of the State for Congressmen in 1870 resulted as follows: Republican, 80,426; Democratic, 76,373. The vote for Governor in 1868 was: Republican, 79,333; Democratic, 83,955.

Senator Jarrard, in a speech, recently stated that the Republican State Executive Committee, of which he was a member, had received nothing but cheering news from all parts of the state, and had no doubt of Mr. Walsh's election. The work is being well attended to in every part of the State, and Republicans every where are confident of success. Good organizations are being effected in nearly every county, and if the work keeps up during the next few days as it has been in the past victory is certain. The Republicans have made unusually good nominations in nearly every county in the State, and those strengthen the ticket everywhere.

MARYLAND.

The Maryland Republicans claim that the last Democratic majority will be reduced at least ten thousand at the coming election. Jacob Tome, Esq., their candidate for Governor, is making a quiet but thorough canvass of the state, and is doing a good deal of effective work.

WISCONSIN AND MINNESOTA.

In both these states but little interest attaches to the result. Both will go Republican by their usual, if not increased, majorities.

VIRGINIA.

The canvass in Virginia is proceeding with great activity, and it is evident that the Republicans make sure progress. Full success for them would be the result of complete party organization, which has not been effected. It is certain that we shall make large gains in the way of representation, especially in the Valley of Virginia. The onerous funding bill excites great hostility the more it is ventilated, and the exposure of the Democratic desire to sacrifice the common schools in behalf of that measure, which at the best is regarded as opening the door to corrupt speculation, is producing effects the reverse of Conservative expectations.

The state committee is quite hopeful and energetic. Nearly 70,000 campaign documents have been distributed. It is noted, as an evidence of educational progress in the Southern states, that there is both an increasing and intelligent demand for political reading matter, and the documents furnished by the Congressional Republican Committee are of a character requiring thoughtful consideration.

Death of Gov. Stanton, Auditor General Elect.

A telegraphic dispatch yesterday morning announced the death of Col. David Stanton, Auditor General elect of Pennsylvania, which occurred at New Brighton, Beaver county, on Sunday morning. He had been in ill health for some time past, but no serious danger was anticipated, and his sudden decease was quite unexpected. There is a difference of opinion as to the manner in which the vacancy will be filled, the law bearing upon the question of vacancy being rather inexplicit. Probably the Governor will make the appointment, subject to confirmation by the Legislature. The Pittsburgh Gazette furnishes the following sketch of the deceased:

Col. Stanton was born in Salem, Ohio, in 1829, and in 1850 came to Pennsylvania, where, at New Brighton, he entered into the practice of medicine. At the commencement of the war he entered the army as surgeon to the First Pennsylvania Cavalry, after which he was promoted to the position of Superintendent of Hospitals and acting medical director of the northern department of the army. For zeal and diligence in the discharge of duty, he was raised to the rank of Colonel in 1865. His whole life was devoted to the cause of universal liberty, and his influence was great in bringing about the complete abolition of slavery. He received the Republican nomination for Auditor General from the state convention held May 17th, 1871, at Harrisburg, receiving 95 votes out of 133 cast, and was elected at the general election last month by a triumphant majority. His death will cause profound sorrow throughout the entire state and beyond its boundaries. He was first cousin of the late Edwin M. Stanton, and possessed many of the strong points of character that rendered that great Secretary of War famous.

Destructive Fire.

Special to the Herald.

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Nov. 6.

A large fire at Brookville, Jefferson county, Penn., on Sunday night, destroyed thirteen of the principle buildings. Loss estimated at over $70,000; insurance small. The Clements House is entirely destroyed, and the American House is damaged by fire and water. The fire originated in the barn of the Clements House, and is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. B.

SUIT AGAINST THOS. C. FIELD.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.

The Attorney General has begun a suit on behalf of the people and mayor, aldermen and commonwealth of New York, against Thomas C. Field, in the Supreme Court, to recover $459,977, fraudulently obtained from the city treasury in payment of certain claims brought by Fields in behalf of members of the old fire department. Fields is a candidate for senator from the Nineteenth district against Horatio Seymour.

The Times is authorized to state that Gov. Hoffman will recommend the next legislature to amend the laws so as to prevent imprisonment for debt, and will also recommend special legislation regarding detention of witnesses.

OFFICIAL FRAUDS IN NORTH AND SOUTH CAROLINA.

The World reiterates the report regarding the plundering of South Carolina by State officers, and says later information shows it not only to be correct, but even so tempered in the interest of truth and justice toward all, as to fall far short of the real condition of affairs. The World also alleges immense issues of fraudulent bonds by State officers of North Carolina. It promises in a few days official figures regarding both frauds.

ELECTION RIOT PROBABLE

The Tribune says in some districts, more notably that of Bradley and O'Brien, there is intense interest in the election and threatens to disturb the peace, while the prospects of a quiet election is generally not encouraging. The canvass of the past two months has been noisy and vigorous in the contest where the struggle is narrowed down to a single candidate in the Ring and Reform tickets. Frequent disturbances are almost certain, though it is hoped the police and military preparations to suppress factiousness and prevent a general riot, which have been threatened. Practically there are only two tickets in the field—that of the Ring or Tammany, and that of the Reformers. In the county ticket of the latter the Republicans of both organizations and honest Democrats are firmly united, the ticket being made up of both Republicans and Democrats, and is heartily endorsed and actively supported by several Reform organizations which have sprung into existence for this canvass.

RESIGNATION OF SECRETARY FISH.

The Tribune reports the resignation of Secretary Fish, and says editorially the country has been afflicted with rumors innumerable concerning the resignation of Hon. Hamilton Fish, Secretary of State. These are crystalized into a statement which we have to-day received from Washington, in a shape so authentic and trustworthy that we are compelled to give it credence.

OIL WORKS BURNED

Pratt's oil works, at Hunter's Point, was burned yesterday. During the fire a large tank of gasoline exploded, seriously burning four firemen. Loss, $20,000.

SUSPICIOUS DEATH.

Miss Alice Mapes, of this city, who was taken from a Fifth avenue stage in a dying condition on Saturday, died shortly after at St. Luke's Hospital. A post mortem examination showed her person to have been drugged by villains who answered her advertisement for a position as governess.

The order for the release of one of the prisoners in Ludlow street jail, signed by Judge Barnard, not having been complied with by the sheriff, who has taken the advice of counsel in the matter of jurisdiction, will come up on habeas corpus on Wednesday.

A TAMMANY ELECTION DODGE.

One of the rumors concerning election frauds is that the Tammany ruffians intend to have many of the names on the registry lists voted on early in the day, to the exclusion of legitimate voters. When a man votes on a false name there seems to be no remedy.

ASSASSIN HUNG.

Intelligence received here to-day reports that the assassin of the late Lord Chief Justice of India has been hanged. His body was burned by a number of natives of the lowest caste.

FALSE REGISTERING.

A number of prominent gentlemen, including Chas. O'Connor, John E. Devaline and Oswald Otterdorfer, sent a communication to the emigration society, directing attention to the report that the emigrants now on Ward's island are falsely registered.

FRAUD IN WASHINGTON.

A Washington dispatch to the Herald says the doings of Chief Clerk Johns, of the Pension Office and Interior Department will be investigated by Congress. One of the schemes in which Johns was concerned was leasing the Seaton Hotel, which was secured for three years at $10,000 a year, for Pension Office purposes, and for the rental of which, it is alleged, a large per centage was paid to the committee on the subject, of which Johns was a member.

RELIEF FOR CHICAGO IN PARIS.

A letter from Paris says the meeting held to procure means of aid for Chicago, which was convened by Minister Washburne, was largely attended by American residents in Paris, there being many English present as well. Washburne said Chicago is distinguished the world over for its energy, its enterprise, its public spirit, its intelligence, and its patriotism. They are a great people, but greater than ever in the future, for they shall rise above their misfortune, and the waters of the magnificent lake that laves the shores of the burning city shall never sing its requiem, for it shall rise, Phœnix like, from its ashes, and challenge the wonder and admiration of the world. The great calamity makes all nations our kin. Our suffering countrymen will have the sympathies of the people of all nations, and their warm sympathy will be manifested according to the measure of their ability in a substantial way. The great, generous heart of England has been aroused, and large subscriptions have been made all over the United Kingdom. Various gentlemen spoke in behalf of the relief movement. Among these was Mr. Tucker, of Georgia, who said he was glad, as a representative of the South, to take part in a meeting which had for its object so praiseworthy a purpose; he was sure the South would be as ready as the North in giving to the suffering. Francis Corben, of Virginia, also spoke to the same purpose. Thirty thousand dollars was subscribed at the meeting.

M. Coobie, Prefect of the Department of the Seine, has issued a circular announcing the formation of a relief committee, asking subscriptions, and stating that France, though poor, deserved to give proof of her fraternal sympathies in return for what the inhabitants of the United States had done in French misfortunes.

A TEST CASE IN BANKRUPTCY.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed in the United States Court of this city, asking that the Manhattan Insurance Company, of New York, be declared a bankrupt, and an assignee appointed to take charge of its assets for the benefit of its creditors. This has been done to test the question whether a foreign corporation doing business in this state is amenable to the bankrupt courts of this state. This is done under authority of an act of the General Assembly passed March 11th, 1869, in which it is enacted that any insurance companies incorporated or organized under the law of any other state, desiring to do business in this state, must first appoint an attorney in this state on whom a process of law can be served, and filed in the office of State Auditor. It is claimed under this act that foreign insurance companies that should come into this state to do business should be amenable to the laws of this state to the same extent as a private citizen, and the creditors of such company should not be obliged to apply to indicative powers of any other state for enforcement of their rights or claims. The Manhattan Insurance Company in entering this state to do business complied with the statutes referred to by appointing an agent who still resides in the city of Chicago, and upon whom service can be filed if a process is issued by any court in the county.

HORSE THIEF SHOT.

On Saturday afternoon, near Plymouth, Indiana, David Tillers, a well known farmer, discovered two strange men asleep in his hay stack, and two strange horses near by. Supposing the men to be horse thieves, he procured the assistance of neighbors and attempted to arrest them. The men attempted to escape, and a man named Henry Cook was shot dead. His comrade ran away wounded, but effected his escape. Cook has had the reputation of being a thief for several years.

KILLED WHILE ASLEEP.

A party of men living near a wood in Indiana went out coon hunting on Saturday night, and while returning home at a late hour, three of the party sat down on the railroad to await the arrival of the rest of the party, and very soon fell asleep. An express train soon came along, struck John Grier and threw him sixty feet, causing his instantaneous death. Robbins was badly hurt, but it is hoped not fatally. The other was unhurt.

THE ELECTION TO DAY.

There is a deep interest manifested in the result of the election to be held to-morrow, as there will be a comparatively large vote cast. The Board of Trade today resolved to adjourn until Wednesday, and no transactions in that body will take place. The mayor has also issued a proclamation recommending the closing of all business during the day.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES FOR ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA KU KLUX.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6

Senator Scott has received a letter from Yorkville, S.C., dated Oct. 29, in which it is stated that Avery, Tomlinson and Bratton, together with twenty or thirty other Ku Klux, have precipitately fled. About 100 delivered themselves up. Evidence is very strong against them. There is confirmation of a large number of whippings and hangings by Tomlinson, in which Bratton was leader and Avery accessory; also the murder of Brown and Seat and Romultree, besides five other murders not heretofore suspected. Twenty concerned in various murders are in jail, most of them having fully confessed and showed that all the murders were committed by order of Grand Chief Avery. There is rejoicing among the people at the relief which has been afforded them, and the President's action is thought to be vindicated by the facts.

PETITION GRANTED.

The United States Supreme Court to-day granted leave to the state of Kentucky to file a petition for mandamus to compel the Secretary of the Treasury to issue a warrant for $525,259, the amount alleged to be due on account of war claim. The motion will be argued on the 17th inst.

PATENT PROTECTED.

The Commissioner of Patents to-day dissolved the interference of B. W. Nichols, of Canton, Ohio, in the case of Richard A. Jackson, of Alliance, Ohio, for a patent converting cast iron into steel.

SICK OF THE WAR PATH.

Superintendent Hoag reports that Big Mouth, a famous Arrapahoe chief, says he is convinced of the advantage his people have derived from the whites. He sees that the whites will soon cover the whole land. If the Indians do not get out of the white man's path they will be shot away. He is determined to learn to cultivate the soil.

CONDITION OF THE I. C. AND L. R. R.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 6.

A meeting of the stockholders of the I. C. and L. R. R. was held to-day at the company's depot, in this city, for the election of directors, and to pass upon a proposed scheme for the reorganization of the company, and whether, in carrying out the said plan, they will consent to an adjudication of bankruptcy. The receivers of the road presented their report, showing the condition of the road from the time they began the management up to the present time. The report shows a gratifying increase of the prosperity of the road and was received and adopted. The following shows the financial condition of the road: Bonded debt, authorized, $8,400,000; bonds actually sold, $7,972,000; coupons unpaid, $400,000; debt secured by bonds and real estate, $400,000; preferred debt, $30,000; claims in litigation, $50,000; unsecured debt, $740,000; I. C. & L. stock, $5,685,490; Ohio and Indiana stock outstanding, and actually sold $43,000. The report closes with a hope that as the reorganization of the road has been signed by two-thirds of the stockholders, and as the business of the road will have a surplus in a few years to pay off all its floating debt and give a valuable property in the stock, legal complications will be speedily settled.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 6.

Stone & Stewart's paper mill, Brookville, Indiana, burned yesterday, and had an insurance of $2,500 each in the Union, Farmer's, Miami Valley, Commercial, Western, Citizen's and Tobacco Companies, of this city, on the machinery and fixtures, and $5,000 in the Andes on the stock; total, $22,500.

The residence of Hon. Wm. Fielding, Past Grand Master of free and accepted Masons, at Sydney, Ohio, was burned at 3 o'clock this morning.

DEATH OF A PROMINENT MAN.

William Madding, for eleven years master car builder and car inspector for the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, died at his residence in this city to-day of typhoid fever. He had been a member of the Town Council for a number of years, and held a prominent position among the leading men of the city. The buildings, railroad shops and offices are draped in mourning. His remains will be taken to Allegheny City, Pa., on Wednesday, for interment.

The Martyrs of Neglect.—It is not too much to say that tens of thousands are now suffering from billiousness, indigestion, constipation, periodical fevers, general debility, and nervous affections, who might be restored to perfect health within a month or less by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The multitude who have been cured of these and other ailments by the use of this well known specific are always ready to testify to its virtue as a preventive and a remedy. They are spread over the whole country; they are eager to praise and recommend it; and yet, notwithstanding its vast popularity, there are many invalids, and many who are continually exposed to the epidemical diseases, against which it is a sure protection, who, either through indifference or incredulity neglect to seize the opportunity to cure and means of prevention, which they have only to reach out their hands to obtain. This is strange; it is one of the anomalies of human nature which it is impossible to account for or explain. It is, however, quite certain that every day the number of these Martyrs of Neglect is diminishing. This is proved by the statistics of the sales of the great remedy. During the present fall the demand for it has increased beyond all precedent, and it seems that in the end the entire community would realize the fact, that when all other medicines prescribed for the above complaints fail, it can and does effect a cure. As a protection against the diseases most common at this season, there is nothing comparable with it.

Office Penn Transportation Co.

On and after this date Oils will be received for transportation as follows: Oil under 48 gravity, two per cent.; 48 gravity, and not exceeding 49, three per cent.; oil exceeding 49 gravity will be rejected. Gravity test of oil to be from the top of the oil.

THE statement we made yesterday of Mr. Gore's negotiation with the P. and M. Bank was not very explicit. The bank did not agree to cash the bonds for one per cent, but to negotiate them for one per cent. As the bonds had not been negotiated when Mr. Gore called for his money the bank proposed to advance eighty per cent, and hold the bonds as collateral. Mr. Gore, in assenting to the proposition for negotiating the bonds at one per cent. doubtless labored under the impression that they would be sold at par, and he would receive ninety-nine per cent., but as this arrangement could not be effected, and he was unable to pay his men, he suspended work. We understand a remonstrance is being circulated among business men on Spring street in the vicinity of the sewer protesting against the suspension of the work in its present condition. The street is entirely obstructed between Washington and Perry streets, to the serious detriment of all doing business in that neighborhood.

AN INSANE MAN CUTS HIS THROAT.—A young man named Alex. Evans, twenty-two years of age, and a cooper by trade, attempted to commit suicide yesterday afternoon, while laboring under a fit of insanity. It appears that for several days past he had imagined that some one was going to kill him, and last Saturday fled from his mother's house behind Roberts' coal yard, to the woods on the south side of the creek; he returned in the evening, and spent a very troubled night. On Sunday night he went to Mr. Lavel's house behind Hale's planing mill, and knocked at the door. Mr. Lavel seeing his demented condition, took him in, put him to bed, and nursed him during the night. He was exceedingly violent, but in the morning became calm. He remained in bed until four o'clock yesterday afternoon, when he got up, went into the kitchen, and asked for a glass of water. He returned to the room, and was found, a few minutes subsequently, lying on the floor with his throat cut, and a jack-knife in his hand. Dr. Dunnigan sewed up the wound.

—Since writing the above we have learned from Dr. Dunigan, that the man, besides cutting his throat stabbed himself in the left breast, above the heart. The wounds in the neck are not dangerous, but that in the breast is of a serious nature.

DIED OF INJURIES.—Mr. Henry C. Chapman, the unfortunate man who was run over by the cars at Miller Farm last Thursday, while attempting to catch the train, died in consequence of his injuries, at the Harding House, in this city, yesterday at half-past 3 o'clock. The victim of the terrible accident had suffered amputation of both limbs below the knee, an operation that he bore with the most heroic fortitude, but it is supposed that he was also injured internally in his side, and on Sunday night he began to sink rapidly, and expired yesterday afternoon. The deceased was attended by his wife and her brothers, the Messrs. Bickford. He come here about three years ago from Houlton, Aroostook county, Maine, and had for a long time been the superintendent of the Clermont farm, adjoining the Wood farm. He was about forty years of age, and leaves a wife and three children. His remains will be taken to Newburgh, Maine, to-day. The late Mr. Chapman had many friends, who esteemed him and who will mourn his loss.

PERSONAL.—Mr. B. Scott, Jr., of the Academy of Arts of Philadelphia, is in town, and will offer for sale, in a few days, as soon as a suitable location can be secured, a collection of oil paintings of rare merit by distinguished artists. Mr. Scott is well known to be a connoisseur in this line, and has made large collections in Europe to supply private galleries in this country. He needs no introduction here after his highly successful and satisfactory sale in this city a year ago.

DONATION FOR REBUILDING THE METHODIST CHURCHES OF CHICAGO.—The M. E. Churches of Franklin on Sunday gave to Dr. Thomas $1,000 in cash, in aid of rebuilding the Methodist churches of Chicago, and passed resolutions of sympathy. They will also vote at the next Erie conference to increase this amount to at least $20,000. This is a most liberal and praiseworthy donation, and we hope to see it repeated by other churches of all denominations.

OIL SUITS.—The case of Sterling Bonsall vs. Kennedy and D. C. Hahn, one of the eleven oil firms against whom suit was instituted, was before the arbitrators Friday, and they awarded the plaintiff the sum of $2,248.33. The Leader says the arbitrators were Thomas Ewing, H. H. McCormick and William Reardon. Thos. S. Keenan was counsel for Bonsall, and Messrs. Hampton and Dalzell for defendants.

ADVERTISING DIRECTORY.—Messrs. Williams & Muckleston, commence canvassing at Oil City to-day for Orr's patent Pictorial Business Advertiser. It contains a variety of fine steel engravings and colored lithographs, and is to be placed in the reading rooms of the principal hotels in the oil regions.

A WILD BEAR.—A live black bear weighing 250 pounds, now occupies a portion of the bar-room at the Abbott House. He was caught in the woods between this city and Meadville about two weeks ago, and arrived here yesterday.

AN EXPLOSION.—The explosion which shook the west end of the city about 6 o'clock last evening, was caused by prematurely opening a tar still at Hinkley & Allen's refinery. No damage done.

NEW YORK ELECTION TO-DAY.—We hope all our Republican "carpet-baggers" will go home and vote.

ANSWERS TO ADVERTISERS.—There are two letters at this office for "B. G. G," and three for "S. P. H."

The Spring Street Sewer Blockade.

Editors Morning Herald:

How much longer is this Dutch Gap canal to remain open on Spring street, leaving the street in such a condition that it is impossible for us to receive our goods or carry on our business? We have patiently endured the blockade in front of the Roberts block and the Second National bank, at a great loss of trade, without a murmur, for we have an interest in public improvements, and are willing to be inconvenienced, and even spend a portion of our earnings, to promote the welfare of the city, but this last blockade is the straw that breaks the camel's back. The contractor has quit work, and we are threatened with an open ditch all winter. We can neither bring our goods from the depot nor deliver them from our stores, being pened in on all sides.

Have we no rights as business men and taxpayers that the city officials are bound to respect, or must we quietly submit to this outrage merely to satisfy the whims of a one-man power?

Our rents are high; we are subjected to enormous taxes, which we uncomplainingly pay, and we want a fair chance to carry on our business, so as to be prepared to meet these obligations.

We demand that the sewer shall be completed without unnecessary delay, or else that the ditch shall be filled up and the street made passable. If it is permitted to remain open this winter, the business men of this locality will be damaged thousands of dollars. A SUFFERER.

Notes from Cash-Up.

The new town of "Cash-Up" at the McLaughlin well is very lively. Hundreds of visitors arrive every day. Mr. Wagner's boarding house is crowded day and night; the table is set four times a day. He is going to enlarge his house right away. A machine shop has been started by Mr. Murphy of Pithole, with a hardware department. Mr. Dawson has also opened a hardware store. Mr. Aikins of Pleasantville has a grocery store. Three new boarding houses are going up. A stage line runs from Pleasantville to Cash-Up twice a day, leaving at 7 A. M. and 1 P. M., the latter connecting with the Titusville line to Pleasantville. The McLaughlin still flows about 150 barrels a day. The Brown No. 2, torpedoed on Thursday evening is doing 100 barrels. The Gardner & Co. well on the Stewart tract, near the Brown well, was torpedoed and is doing twelve barrels a day. There are fifty rigs going up in this region, on different tracts; on the Stewart, Harsh and Schriver, Fisher and Harridon, Brown Brothers, Shamburg, etc.

Mr. Bronson's driver, who was injured the other day while moving a boiler, lies in a very critical condition, and is not expected to recover. Dr. Wilson of Pleasantville is attending him.

NECK AND NECK AT THE PARSHALL OPERA-HOUSE TO-NIGHT.—The most sensational drama ever put on the stage will be produced at the Opera-house, this evening, entitled "Neck and Neck." Its popularity at Niblo's was unbounded, and throughout the country it has drawn immensely. Among the sensational effects is a public execution on the scaffold, also the portraiture of an express train about to be dashed to pieces, and only saved by a miracle. This is touching the verge of the sensational, and substituting the emotion of horror for that of terror is supposed to powerfully move and affect the audience. But as it all ends in the reward of virtue and the punishment of crime, a salutary lesson, it is to be hoped, will be impressed on the mind of the spectator. The piece is full of fun and humor, as well as exciting and startling incidents and situations. Mr. Stetson is the star of the troupe, and is well supported by a well trained company. There will be only one performance in Titusville, and that is this evening.

AMONG the first class fire insurance companies that have successfully weathered the fierce storm of flames which destroyed the heart of the city of Chicago, none now stand on a firmer basis than the Franklin, of Philadelphia, which is in the list of companies represented by F. Bates & Co., of this city. This old and well conducted corporation lost less than half a million by the fearful and crushing Chicago disaster, and the money to pay every cent of these losses is now ready for the claimants. After the Chicago losses are settled, and the liability on perpetual premiums discounted, the Franklin possesses a paid in capital of four hundred thousand dollars, and a realized surplus of one million three hundred thousand dollars invested in the most reliable securities.

A CASE WORTHY OF SYMPATHY AND ASSISTANCE.—A family named Reynolds, living east of the city line, on a road leading from the Johnson House to Church Run, are just now greatly afflicted and in need of assistance. Last night two children were lying dead in the house and another was hopelessly ill from scarlet fever. The rest of the family, consisting of the mother and four children, are also threatened with fever. The house is in the neighborhood of the Soldiers' Orphan School. Mr. Berry last evening sent medical assistance to the family. They are in need of clothes and provisions, and it is requested that contributions may be furnished to-day. Mr. Berry will take charge of and deliver all contributions left at this office.

THE BILLIARD EXHIBITION AT THE OPERA-HOUSE TO-MORROW EVENING, Nov. 8, for the benefit of Mons. and Madame Garnier, who were unable to save anything, not excepting a change of clothing, at the Chicago fire, promises to be a grand affair. Mr. Diehl informs us that the billiard hall will be placed in the centre of the parquette by moving a portion of the folding chairs so the audience occupying the dress circle chairs can have an unobstructed view of the the table. The family circle, being the same price as the parquette and dress circle, will also be very choice seats. We call attention to the programme in our advertising columns.

MR. O. C. PHILLIPS has received a letter from H. B. Ring, of Denver, Colorado, stating that the oil being produced in that locality is 26° gravity, and that he has secured all the petroleum lands in that district. The belt smellers should apply their galvanometers to the tracing of the course of the belt from Terre Haute, Ind., to Denver, Col. There is a fine opening in so large an intervening territory for another "Ring."

POST OFFICE LOCK BOXES.—Twenty-five additional lock boxes with Sargent locks and duplicate keys, will soon be ready for use in the Post Office. Application for them can be made to-day.

FIREMEN, ATTENTION.—The regular monthly meeting of Rescue Hook and Ladder Company, will take place this evening at 7½ o'clock. All the members are requested to attend. By order of Spiritism.

Editors Morning Herald:

In the HERALD of the 20th of October, there appears an article written by "Non-Materialist," wherein he, "Non-Materialist," proposes to answer certain questions propounded in an article found in the HERALD of the 19th, but you will search in vain for any answer whatever.

Non-Materialist says: "He," the writer, "objects to any evidence from the Bible," which is not true, as any person will readily discover by reading the article. The writer objected to the introduction of the Bible, as testimony, by a Spiritist, on the universally acknowledged principle, that no persons are allowed to impeach their own witnesses; and it is well known, that in the lectures delivered in this city by Spiritists, during the last few months, that they, one and all, ignored the Bible, or rather condemned it, and pronounced it contradictory and false.

Whenever the spiritist admits the truth of the Bible, then, and not till then, may he introduce it in evidence. "Non-Materialist" recapitulates quite a number of the questions asked, and then says, they, "if unanswered, are calculated to do much harm" in certain quarters, and then says he "will feebly endeavor" to give some light to the "anxious inquirer." It was indeed a feeble "endeavor," for he has not even attempted to answer a single question propounded, but simply says, certain things are "held to be" thus and so, but offers no valid reason for such holding, but appears to assume that, because a thing "is held to be" so and so, of course it is so and so. This earth was once "held to be" a vast flat surface. Did that holding prove it to be so?

"Non Materialist" has occupied nearly a column of your valuable paper in trying to get around those questions, without attempting to answer them, thus tacitly admitting that they are unanswerable.

As stated in the former article, it is truth that we are in search of, and truth never suffers by investigation.

We did not ask those questions through any spirit of fault-finding, nor with any desire to wound or irritate; but with a desire of bringing out truth that shall make men wiser and better. If "Non-Materialist" or any other person can give us truth, we will thankfully receive it, and "endeavor" to profit by it. A

More Light.

TITUSVILLE, Nov. 6, 1871.

Editors Morning Herald:

We like Titusville very much, and have often wished it were our home; but we would ask for one very important improvement, namely, more light, especially at bad spots. We suppose visitors to the oil regions are expected to encounter perils in the country; but in the chief city to be left to grope our way in darkness amid sewer excavations, over broken walks, and especially crossing into town over the plank, and finding no guide for turning off to reach Main street, is a burning shame which ought not to exist a single night longer in so thriving a place.

Gentlemen, let your lights be burning to guide benighted TRAVELERS.

Oil News.

ST. PETERSBURGH, Nov. 6, 1871.

Editors Morning Herald:

The Nealey well, on the Nealy farm, one quarter of a mile east of the Hewling well, penetrated the oil rock on Saturday last, and yesterday was flowing through the casing at the rate of fifty barrels per day.

The Pleasantville well, on the Eli Ritts farm, was tubed Saturday, and is pumping about fifteen barrels. The proprietors of this well, Goss Bros, Goal, Heart, Hicks & Johnson, have a large stock of territory around this well, and will commence the drilling of more at once. P.

A new well was struck on the H. Neeley farm, Parker's Landing, on Friday last, which promises to be something big. When only five feet in the sand a vein of gas and oil was struck of so powerful a volume as to start the well to flowing at the rate of thirty-five barrels per day through the casing. It is owned by Messrs. Patterson & Dickey, M. L. Lockwood, and W. H. Nicholson, of Petroleum Centre, Kemp Bros., of Columbia farm, and Armor & Raymer, of Parker's Landing. When completed the well bids fair to be a large one.—Record.

The Insurance Situation—List of Solvent Companies.

The Chicago fire has, at last advices, proved more disastrous to the companies represented there than at first reported. The result of which is that many of the older companies have been obliged to retire from business until a full and detailed report may be had of their liabilities, and in consideration of these facts I have at a great expense and labor secured a few more companies not represented in Chicago, and who lose nothing by the fire, and by this means I am enabled to offer to my patrons and the public reliable and safe insurance at adequate rates. The companies now represented, whose capital and assets remain firm and unimpaired are:

Imperial, of London, gold	$3,000,000
Home, of Columbus, Ohio	600,000
Union of Bangor, Maine	45 500
Eastern, " "	350 000
People's, of Pennsylvania	550,000
Williamsport, of Williamsport, Pa.	150,000

The General Insurance Agency of F. Bates & Co., established in 1863, still lives, notwithstanding the great fires in the oil region in 1865, the Portland fire in 1866, and the Chicago fire in 1871.

We do not advertise "Solvent Companies" that didn't have sufficient respectability to be known in Chicago, and of course had no losses there. Nor do we say "unembarrassed," for "we think we are bit." But if our customers, or any parties will bring us their insurance policies we will tell them what is good and what is not, and will try to protect them in the future as well as we have during the eight years past.

Judge Lowrie's Charge to the Grand Jury of Crawford County, November 6, 1871.

GENTLEMEN:—The oath which you have just taken gives you a general idea of the duties you have to perform as a part of this Court of Quarter Sessions, and a more special idea of the mode in which you are to conduct yourselves in performing those duties. You are to make diligent inquiry and true presentments of all such matters as are given you in charge, and of all such as you know to be presentable here. The chief matters included by these words are all such offences against the law as are to be corrected by indictment, trial and sentence here. You can have nothing to do with crimes not committed in this county, for they are not triable here. You can declare nothing to be criminal which the law does not condemn, and you can declare nothing innocent which it does condemn. If you disregard this you become yourselves transgressors of law, by error or usurpation; for your duty here is simply one of administering the law, and not of making or correcting it.

Most of the matters you will have to consider will come before you in the form of bills of indictment prepared by the District Attorney. You will call before you the witnesses whose names you find written on each bill, and swear them to tell the truth in relation to the charge contained in it; and if, after hearing them, you are convinced that there is reasonable evidence that the charge is true, you will find and endorse "a true bill;" but if otherwise, you will endorse the bill "ignoramus" or not a true bill. And you will bear in mind that you can find no bill against any one and impose no costs on any one unless at least twelve of your number agree in making such a return. When there is not such a majority in finding a bill, it falls and must be returned ignoramus, and when there is not such a majority for imposing costs on the prosecutor, in cases of misdemeanor, you will, of course, find that the county is to pay them. In the higher grades of offenses, you have no authority to dispose of the costs. You will find many small cases presented to you, in which it will be your duty to consider whether the costs ought to be borne by the prosecutor or the county, when you ignore the bill. You can never impose them on the defendant because defendants are never heard before the grand jury.

I have spoken of these as small cases, and so they are, in comparison with others. Yet they are not so in the estimation of the parties concerned, or in the consequences which may follow them, and they deserve your careful consideration. Small minds must be allowed to be in earnest about small matters; and I say this in no supercilious spirit, but in a spirit of sincere kindness. Indeed, we are all small in many things, and need much indulgence from our fellow-men. A supercilious and censorious spirit is unbecoming in any of us, and very unfit for judicial functions, whether yours or mine.

Ignorant and untrained persons are sure to have some share in the litigations which courts are called upon to adjust. Naturally they have the greatest share; because they have less of the temper and skill that settle disputes and prevent litigation. We may banish small cases from court by a harsh and contemptuous treatment of them; but we do not thereby cure the social disease, while we may seriously aggravate it. There is a species of selfishness that is always ready to exercise its talents in its neighborhood by petty encroachments, mischiefs, annoyances and meddlings, and it would feel quite free in the practice of its calling if the general rule were understood that small cases are treated as vexatious and unfounded.

The greatest evils start from small causes. A spark may make an appalling conflagration, unless you put your foot on it in time. The small faults of children become the great evils of men, unless decidedly and watchfully corrected by parental authority, and many parents have lived to repent of their cultivation of such views by overlooking small faults, and substituting kindness and indulgence for authority and repression. We may fall into the same error by an improper discouragement of small cases. We may thus displace our censures by laying them on persons who are sincerely desirous of correcting public wrongs in an orderly way, or waste our kindness by bestowing it on persons who can have no proper appreciation of it. Children do not recognize any indulgence of their faults to be kindness, until they have first learned by experience that disobedience is a vice that calls for punishment as its remedy. Without this they very logically infer from their only means of inference, their own experience, that disobedience and indulgences are part of their rights, and that there is no merit or self-denial in parental kindness calling for gratitude and repentance.

And so it is with ignorant and untrained persons in regard to the law of the land. If they had properly felt the force of parental authority they would not be ignorant and untrained. But society receives them as they are, and has no remedy for their disorders but the penalties of the law. These do not supply the place of proper training or cure the vice of ill-disposed affections; but the fear of them may prevent much actual disorder. We are to administer this remedy; but we do it with sincere respect for the law, turning away no complaint because the offense is small, if it really be a legal offense; treating no case with censorious harshness or with indulgent levity, and remembering that the good order of our county depends, in a great degree, on the fidelity with which you perform your part in administering its criminal law.

You cannot properly impose the costs of any bill upon the prosecutor, if the bill appears to you to be true. But if you find it not true, you may do so, when you find that the prosecutor commenced it in a spirit of spite, or passion, or recklessness, without having any reasonable cause of complaint, or when he is himself chiefly in fault. If, on the other hand, the bill appears to be true, find it so, and let the offender bear the consequence, even though you may think the prosecutor greatly in fault also. If the law were as weakly indulgent, and its administrators as careless as many parents are, society would soon fall into hopeless anarchy. We must avoid this fault, and do justice even when loving mercy. These two dispositions are not incompatible.

There may be some offenses which you know to be presentable here, and your oath makes it your duty to present them. Each one of you may perform his duty herein by stating to his fellows all he knows of any offense and of the witnesses of the facts, and submitting to their judgment the propriety of proceeding further. Do this fairly and truly without sympathy for popular views on the one hand, or for undue rigidity on the other. The District Attorney will, on your request, assist you in such matters by preparing such bills as you require and sending for the proper witnesses. There may be offenses, especially against the laws in restraint of tippling and gambling which are so well-known, or so strongly suspected in particular neighborhoods, as to call for this exercise of your authority. Office-seekers are apt to fear the power of this class of offenders. I trust you do not.

There is also another class of offenses of a much more serious character, in its influence on our institutions, which calls for your investigation, if you can get any clue to their discovery. I mean bribery at elections. Surely you must suppose that the public rumors on this subject must be gross exaggerations, bred by excitements of our elections, and that these exaggerations and excitements themselves are grossly demoralizing; always tending more and more to generate a universal selfishness, and to substitute a narrow and suspicious partizanship for a large and generous patriotism. Such excitements breed bribery and are supported by it.

If you should think it proper to enter upon any such investigation you will find yourselves beset with difficulties that will call for the exercise of your highest skill and caution. Such deeds are done in darkness, and the only witnesses of them are usually the guilty parties themselves, and they are very careful to conceal their deeds. But many thieves and robbers and lewd persons talk freely among their class about their exploits, and are not always careful to see that none others are present, and thus we sometimes obtain a knowledge of their evil deeds. Besides this, honor among thieves is not always a reliable quality, for sometimes we find it true that when rogues fall out honest men come by their rights, by finding out the truth; and even honest repentance and confession sometimes opens up to us the secret underminings of vice and wickedness.

But the wickedness we speak of now is of a kind that is not usually practiced by social outcasts, but by men who have still some influence among good citizens and have a fair portion of respectability; and, on this account, you may need great courage in ferreting out such crimes. It is easy for you to do justice in cases of common crimes against men of bad reputation, because you have public opinion to support and aid you, and even, sometimes, to urge you on to wrong. And it is easy to do this against humble and unknown persons, because they have no standing that warns us to be cautious.

Social influence and position is a shield for many vices, because social justice is not always courageous and true to itself. Strong fish break up the nets in which weaker fry are caught, and it is well to complain of this that we may notice its source in our common human weakness and guard against it.

You cannot move in an inquiry about the crime of bribery at elections without finding yourselves hindered or foiled by party men, who wish to save a zealous partisan from harm and their party from discredit; and thus you will discover that very earnest partisanship is apt to force its morals and even its religion into subjection to its party passions, and require them to sustain any measure that gives hope of a party triumph. Men who sacrifice honor or honesty or other high principle for our cause are very apt to find us willing to cover some, if not multitudes, of their sins.

And you must be above the common measure of our nature if you do not find dispositions within you, urging you to be blind to the faults of one side and unduly suspicious of those of the other, and warping your judgment in the search of truth. We ought all to be above this if we can. I hope you may find some of those who are guilty of this vice, for surely it is practiced among us. All our public journals say so. All persons speak of it. It is a vice that will be the ruin of our country, as it has been of others, if it become so common that criminal justice shall bow before it.

Let truth be your guide in this and every other investigation; it is of no party; it gives way before neither friends nor enemies, nor party expediency, nor popular excitement. Obey the spirit of the truth with single minded devotion, and it will make you free in judging and brave in doing right. To be true to ourselves and our country, we must have a deep and constant sense of moral obligation, a frankness and candor in our search after the truth, and in submission to it, that yields to no "fear, favor, affection or reward, or any hope thereof." Without this all our boasting of our liberty is but a covering up of our defects, and stimulating them to corruption. If you get any trace of any criminals of this class, and need more than usual time to follow it out, the court will cheerfully concede it to you. In attending to this you will feel the importance of that part of your oath that requires you to keep all your deliberations secret.

You will find the usual variety of crimes in the bills which will be laid before you by the District Attorney. In every case the crime is defined in the bill, and it will be your duty to ascertain from the witnesses whether the charge is true or not. If you have reasonable evidence that the facts stated on the bill are true you will find it a true bill, and put the party on his trial before the traverse jury.

Some of the cases, I am sorry to learn, (perhaps only one), relate to crimes of the very highest degree, the taking of the life of a fellow being. These are, of course, very serious; but before the grand jury they are not more difficult than many other cases. Still the question with you is, are the facts truly charged in the bill? is it supported by reasonable evidence? There are degrees of murder, but you are not to consider them; it is for the traverse jury to decide after hearing both sides, whether it is a case of murder in the first or second degree.

Gentlemen, do your duty with all diligence. You will find your work much facilitated by holding your sessions as nearly as possible according to the hours of the court, and we expect to sit daily from 8 a. m. till after 12, and from 2 p. m. till after 6, unless when interrupted by want of readiness of business. As your oath requires you, keep secret all that takes place among you, except the results endorsed and presented on your bills. You will find this precaution advantageous to yourselves and to the work you have to do. Do your duty without fear, favor, affection of reward, or any hope thereof, and also without any hatred, malice or ill-will, guided only by the truth.

And let me remind you that no judge or juror can sit as such in any case wherein he is himself interested, or wherein any person nearly related to him is interested. Such a juror is disqualified when such a case comes before the grand jury, and it is his duty to withdraw while the case is under consideration or hearing.

Gentlemen, there are some matters which may come before you in which you act, not as officers of the criminal law, but rather as local legislators of our county, and they will call on you for your grave attention. In considering them you are to act in all respects according to your oath of office, but with this difference of practice—that you are to hear the witnesses on both sides of any question that may arise concerning them, and that you decide all questions by a majority of your number, even though it be less than twelve. You may hear any witnesses that appear before you, and you may call for any that you need.

The only case of this class, to which I shall call your attention now, is a petition of certain inhabitants of a part of Greenwood township to be incorporated into a borough. This cannot be done by the court without your concurrence. I trust that, in considering this matter, you will found your judgment solely on the evidence given before you. No such thing as borers or private solicitation can be allowed in any matter in court. In law such conduct is called embracery, and it is disgraceful everywhere. Let me read you the law on this subject, for general information, as well as for your guidance. If you know of any one who offends against it you ought to present him by indictment.

The Judge then quotes the law in the case of tampering with jurors, and concludes his charge by sundry instructions in regard to the particular matter to be brought before them.

The Alps Insurance Company.

At a meeting of the stockholders of this company, held at Erie on the 16th inst., it was resolved to raise all the money needed to pay the losses in the great Chicago fire promptly, without using stock or surplus; and an agreement to that effect was signed by a large majority of the stockholders. An adjuster has already gone to Chicago to adjust and pay losses.

M. RUSH WARNER, Secretary.

This is welcome intelligence here, where the Alps is well represented and has a good many policies in force. tf

Titusville Morning Herald.

The Yale Scientific Expedition.

A letter in the New York Times from a member of the Yale scientific expedition, which spent the month of September in the region east of Fort Bridger, in Wyoming, contains the following summary of the result of their exploration:

From a scientific point of view, our trip was a very successful one. In a region seven thousand feet above the sea we have unearthed large quantities of bones of animals resembling the turtle, lizard, serpent, crocodile, rhinoceros, tapir and elephant of tropical climes, and found, besides, fossils of all dimensions, down to a tiny tooth scarcely larger than the head of a pin. In fact, the greater number of discoveries have been those of very small remains, and consequently all the more valuable. Fossil hunting has been harder work than in Kansas; for, instead of riding at our ease, and forcing sure-footed mules to clamber up and around the buttes, while we looked from our saddles for a gigantic rib of vertebra, we have literally crawled over the country on our hands and knees. To see these minute bones the eye must be brought within three or four inches of the white clay on and in which they lie. There seems to be as much chance in their pursuit as in mining. A man of experience may go over a quarter of a mile of the most inviting ground and find little or nothing, while, meantime, the merest tyro may happen upon a butte which seems almost made of fossils. When two or three find such a field together the excitement is great. Lines are drawn, marking the portion allotted to each, with almost as much care as when a valuable mineral claim is located, and the whole butte is thoroughly searched. Competition is keen, for each man has full credit for all discoveries which he may make, and the thought of being immortalized by some huge skeleton in the Yale Museum, which shall be labelled: "Palæosyops Peoki, presented by the discoverer," is a tempting one. Very many new specimens have been found, but exactly how many cannot be known until the boxes which we have forwarded to New Haven have been opened, and their contents carefully examined by Professor Marsh after his return.

Difference in Eggs.

The Germantown Telegraph very truly remarks that "there is a vast difference in the flavor of eggs. Hens fed on clean, sound grain, and kept on a clean grass run, give much finer flavored eggs than hens that have access to stables and manure heaps and eat all kinds of filthy food. Hens feeding on fish or onions flavor their eggs accordingly—the same as cows eating onions or cabbages, or drinking offensive water, impart a bad taste to the milk and butter. The richer the food the higher the color of the eggs. Wheat and corn give the best color, while feeding on buckwheat makes the eggs colorless, rendering them unfit for some confectionary purposes.

Understanding that Mrs. O. B. ANOTHER

Valuable Invention

For Oil Wells.

CATES' PATENT

BACK SUCTION PREVENTIVE,

Which entirely prevents the ingress of air into oil wells while the tubing is being drawn.

It is a well-known fact to oil well operators that upon wells where gas pumps are used, it is necessary to preserve as nearly a perfect vacuum as possible, and that no air should be let into the well at any time when it can possibly be avoided; consequently whenever the tubing is drawn from a well, it is the cause of great injury to it, as the stuffing box being then necessarily opened, the air immediately rushes back between the tubing and casing into the well, going into the oil rock and gas veins, and consequently causing the oil and gas to rush back to a great distance. It almost always takes several days after pumping is resumed for a well to be brought back to its former condition, and oftentimes it takes several weeks, and quite frequently wells have been almost completely ruined by the air being thus let in while drawing tubing.

The Back Suction Preventive is attached to the stuffing box, and works in such a way that it completely shuts up the space between the stuffing box and tubing so effectually that not a particle of air can get through at any time while the tubing is being drawn and replaced.

It supplies a want long felt, and is without question one of the most valuable inventions of the day to those engaged in the oil-producing business. No well should be without one, as it oftentimes saves ten times its cost by once using.

It is manufactured and for sale at the Foundry and Machine Shop of
